Opposition Leader Yvonne Jones will be in Flower's Cove Saturday to participate in a rally to protest the removal of lab and X-ray services, and the reduction of hours at the local health-care facility. The rally is set for 2 p.m. at Cannon Richards School. "I will be supporting the efforts of the people of Flower's Cove this weekend as they protest this government's attempts to gut rural health-care in our province," Jones said. "Forcing rural residents to travel hundreds of kilometers to receive basic medical services, especially during the winter months, is simply unacceptable and must be re-evaluated."
