Lower Churchill No Closer to Development: Liberals

The Liberals say government is no further ahead with development of the Lower Churchill now than when they came into office in 2003. Leader Yvonne Jones accuses the Williams government of changing its message from day to day on the megaproject. Premier Danny Williams maintains that it will eventually be developed whether using the grid through Quebec, building our own lines through Quebec, or going the Maritime route. Williams is also upset with an editorial in a Montreal newspaper which advises Newfoundland and Labrador to give up its quest on trying to ship power through the Quebec grid.
