Liberal Leader Says Let Fire Commissioner Talk April 23, 2008

Liberal Leader Yvonne Jones says it is time the Minister of Municipal and Provincial Affairs lifted the gag order on the Fire Commissioner. Fred Hollett has been holding his tongue for months, following a directive from Municipal and Provincial Affairs Minister Dave Denine. Denine had stated that he, as Minister, would be the one fielding any questions concerning issues of a public nature. In a news release issued last month, Denine stated no health facilities in the province had immediate fire or life safety concerns. Denine says the release was a result of the information available at the time. Jones says the Fire Commissioner's review of the facilities contradicts Denine's previous assertions. While the Commissioner will hold a technical briefing this morning concerning his latest report, Jones says she's concerned such an important official is being muzzled on issues of public safety.
