Labrador Groups Not Consulted: Jones May 29, 2008

The Leader of the Opposition says consultation with groups in Labrador should have taken place before legislation was introduced extinguishing rights along the Lower Churchill River. Yvonne Jones says aboriginal and other groups who have traditionally used the area should have input in the process. Natural Resources Minister Kathy Dunderdale says aboriginal groups are protected historically by prior legislation. NDP Leader Lorraine Michael says although aboriginal rights are protected, she feels the amendments should state that clearly.
